Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-11 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1-10, and 24 respectively of U. S. Patent No. 6,668,565 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows: The claims 1-17 reads the claims 1-10, 24, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 and 24 respectively of US patent 6,668,565 in full.

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant was prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application during prosecution of the application, which matured into a patent. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

Claims 12-17 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 17-21 and 24 respectively of U.S. Patent No. 6,668,565. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the additional phrase, "configured to be disposed in the rack" disclosed in the fourth line of claim 17 of US Patent 6,668,565 after the word "housing" it makes no substantial difference with the applied the claim 12.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 18-19 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by Takahashi et al. (5,173,819). Takahashi et al. disclose a disk apparatus comprising a rack/frame 9 with metal member 94 for supporting equipment module/assembly of HDU (Head Disk Unit) 13, the modules 13 being disposed above one another in the rack, the modules including fans (351-354) to draw gas from fronts of the modules 13 through the modules 13 and to expel gas from backs of the modules 13, the modules 13 having corresponding fronts, the method comprising drawing gas from a bottom region entrance 8 of the rack 9; guiding the gas from the bottom region to a lower front region disposed below the fronts of the modules 13; and forcing the gas upward from front region into an upper front region adjacent the fronts of the modules 13 while inhibiting the gas being initially forced into portions of the rack 9 other than the upper front region. Takahashi also disclose filter 14. See Fig. 8.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claim 20 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Takahashi et al. in view of Nishikawa et al. (JP405332568A). Takahashi et al. disclose the invention substantially as claimed as stated above. However, Takahashi et al. do not disclose a flexible plenum. Nishikawa et al. teach the use of a flexible plenum/duct 14 in an air conditioning system for the purpose of allowing to draw cool gas through it. See Fig. 1 and the attached translation in English version. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the disk apparatus of Takahashi et al. in view of Nishikawa et al. such that a flexible plenum/duct could be provided in order to allow cool gas through it.
